

Stacey Brodbar

Head of Investor Relations

Stacey Brodbar is head of investor relations for Verisk, where she serves as the company's liaison to the investor community. Having been both a buy-side and sell-side analyst, she has a uniquely comprehensive perspective on how investors and analysts think.

In her role, Stacey advises Verisk executives on key investor relations initiatives and nurtures the company's relationships with industry, sell-side and buy-side analysts, and investors worldwide. She also guides Verisk's financial reporting activities.

Before joining Verisk in 2018, Stacey was a senior vice president at the global asset management firm AllianceBernstein, where she covered the consumer discretionary sector for the company's concentrated growth portfolio.

Prior to that, she was a vice president at the investment banking firm Credit Suisse, where she published sell-side research covering the restaurant sector. She started her Wall Street career as an investment banking analyst at PaineWebber.

Stacey holds an MBA from the Columbia Business School and a BA from Duke University in history. She's a member of Duke's Alumni Admission Advisory Committee.
