

Making a splash in the flood industry

Case Study: Administrative Strategies

Administrative Strategies teams with Verisk Consulting Services to leverage technology and improve flood estimating capabilities

Administrative Strategies' mission is to put people's lives back in order. As CEO Linda Sullivan explains, "Our mission is to deliver on the promise the carrier made when the insurance policy was sold."

To fulfill that promise, Administrative Strategies strives to be early adopters of technology. They've staked their reputation on innovation, and believe that by embracing right touch claim handling, they'll be able to provide excellent customer service.

Operations Manager

A Collaborative Partnership

Their latest major innovation launched in tandem with Verisk Consulting Services. Together they took on a multi-year partnership to assess their current state, outline business needs, and identify areas of improvement. Verisk Consulting assisted with implementing those solutions and the results were so successful that both parties were proud to showcase them in a breakout session at the Elevate 2020 conference.

Verisk Consulting Services kicked off the project by shadowing Administrative Strategies adjusters, examiners, and leadership. Shadowing consisted of both desk and field ride alongs including the opportunity to see first-hand flood adjusting in the greater Houston area. The ride alongs allowed Verisk Consulting to establish an as-is state of the company and create workflow diagrams in order to provide improvement recommendations using the Verisk Ecosystem.

The result? An enhanced estimating workflow resulting in significantly improved cycle times. Mobile estimation, ClaimXperience integration, claims management system integration, upgrading to Xactimate desktop (X1), and improvements to content claims handling were key recommendations from Verisk Consulting Services which were important to Administrative Strategies’ success.

Specifically, implementing Personal Rules in XactAnalysis to alert examiners of document uploads was a quick and simple change which resulted in a substantial 72% time-savings for that step of the claim. The effect of the combined improvements made throughout the consulting process resulted in an average cycle time reduction of 65% for XactAnalysis claims from 2019 to 2020 including a 76% time-savings for returning the Flood Preliminary form and Flood Final form.

Benefiting the Entire Flood Industry

Administrative Strategies has been passionate from the beginning about implementing enhancements that benefit the entire flood industry. They provided valuable feedback on ways Verisk tools could better support the FEMA process which resulted in an update to the FEMA forms in Xactimate, and the addition of a RCBAP calculation worksheet in Xactimate, as well as the Loss Questionnaire, Advance Payment Agreement, and a Non-Waiver Agreement for flood in ClaimXperience.

Transforming the Customer Experience

The implementation of ClaimXperience along with the improvements to the program that they helped implement, were perhaps the most timely of all Administrative Strategies enhancements. When the COVID-19 pandemic struck in early 2020, Administrative Strategies was able to utilize the collaborative claims handling tool to pivot to remote adjusting and maintain their high standard of customer service in a virtual environment.

The video collaboration, electronic signature capture, automated document creation, and automatic upload to XactAnalysis features of ClaimXperience proved invaluable in a world where on site adjusting was no longer the norm. Administrative Strategies took their virtual adjusting even further by using ClaimXperience to not only communicate with the policyholder, but also mentor newer adjusters while they were on location.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

Administrative Strategies continues to innovate on its claims handling and training. They are improving the way they educate their mentee adjusters and train on mobile estimation. Jim Gardner summed up Administrative Strategies thoughts for the future best, "In the long run, we want to take enhancements like mobile estimating and automation even further. Come natural disasters, major market shifts, new technology, what have you. We want to always be positioned to support our customers."

"Because of the training and support received from Verisk's Consulting Services, our partners indicate our claim handling has improved with reduced cycle times and fewer supplemental claims."

Jim Gardner,
Operations Manager

“By using Verisk products we are better able to service our customers and fulfill our claims mission. Our partnership with Verisk Consulting Services has helped us to better ourselves and the flood industry with the advancements we’ve made over the past year and a half.”

Linda Sullivan,
President & CEO
